KEY FEATURES AND HIGHLIGHTS

QUALITY ASSURANCE & INTEGRATION

Comprehensive quality checks

Professional newsletter campaigns consist of a large number of individual objects and dependencies.

Integrated test functions uncover any errors in a timely manner before dispatch. Nasty surprises can thus be avoided. Spam checker, depiction check for current mail clients, attention analysis, W3C conformity, flow charts, inbox monitoring and more ensure the necessary transparency.

Integration in the existing IT infrastructure

One of the most demanding disciplines in the field of e-mail marketing is automated data synchronisation. Information gained during campaigns is communicated by Evalanche to existing CRM, ERP or shop systems. Solutions for data synchronisation with, for example, Salesforce CRM, SAP CRM (SAP-certified) or Sugar CRM are being used successfully.

Our expert team of developers will support you to meet your individual requirements.

MULTI-ACCOUNT MANAGEMENT

Multi-client usage

The special features of Evalanche making it particularly suitable for major corporations that are based, i.e. on the concept of multi-client capability, which has been consistently applied from the start. Under one corporate account, any number of accounts for company divisions, subsidiaries, etc., can be set up. These are clearly separated and protected against unauthorised access. This is ensured by a differentiated system of rights and account management with billing via the respective cost centres.

Content syndication

Evalanche offers cross-client content sharing with access to central articles and news. Existing website content can also be imported with this and used for campaigns. An overarching media library simplifies the cross-company access to released images, videos and more.

OPEN ARCHITECTURE

Openness for international communication

Evalanche has been designed from the outset to be used in an international environment. That is, companies with international operations can use all current languages and international character set codings across all formats, including Russian, Chinese, Japanese and Arabic, among others.

Flexible and independent

We have disclosed all templates for newsletters and e-mailings, web forms and landing pages. You can adapt and extend these to your environment independently and as you wish. We also offer you interfaces and programming languages in order to meet special tasks and connections in your company. This makes you independent across the board.

CROSS-MEDIA ONE-TO-ONE COMMUNICATION

Automated and cross-media

With Evalanche, marketing professionals can plan, implement and manage their campaigns independently and intuitively. They are thus largely independent of support from IT specialists. Many processes, e.g. the creation of cross-media e-mailings in different formats, are standardised and can be completed in just a few steps. The different output formats HTML, text, PDF, text-to-speech and XML are integrated in the template and can be used in automated form.

Quality addresses and segmentation

Successful e-mail marketing requires qualified customer profiles: The more specific, the higher the quality. For this purpose, Evalanche offers diverse functions in order to develop detailed profiles. You can also create several data pools under one account and link them with one another via a target group configurator to dynamic target groups with individualisation and personalisation for campaigns with low wastage.
